

Loving Nannies Offers ABCs of Infant Care

What parent wouldn't want the peace of mind that their little ones are in the hands of professional, nurturing care? Loving Nannies Inc. provides that and more.

Loving Nannies, located in Cardiff at 1639 Haydn Drive, serves all of San Diego County and Temecula. The company is a referral service that places quality full- and part-time live-in and -out nannies, infant specialists and babysitters.

Wendy Pierce, a former nanny herself, started the company in 2000 and has been featured in a variety of publications and on local television stations. Pierce says her company stands out because it's been around longer than most and is considered the "original nanny referral service in San Diego." Loving Nannies also has an extensive screening process that exceeds that of most other companies, she says.

"Our nannies have a minimum of three years of experience, are screened in-person for two to three hours, references are checked, and rigorous background checks are performed."

Nannies from Loving Nannies also must complete CPR and first aid training, and go through drug and psychological screenings. The company offers a six-month guarantee on its services, and a variety of care providers from infant specialists to doulas, as well as babysitters.
